FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Speech by Prime Minister on addressing extremism

On 20 July Prime Minister David Cameron made a speech setting out his plans to address extremism. This included: an announcement of a review to be led by Louise Casey to produce "a comprehensive review into boosting opportunity and integration to bring Britain together as one nation" and other plans including:

- Strengthen communications watchdog Ofcom role to take action against foreign TV channels broadcasting extremist messages
- 'Incentivise' schools to become more integrated
- Demand that internet service providers do more to remove extremist material and identify those responsible for it
- Overhaul the strategy to tackle extremism in prisons
- Consult on introducing lifetime anonymity for the victims of forced marriages
- Urge universities to do more to challenge the views of extremist speakers
- Set up a new engagement forum
- Launch a study looking at how extremism spreads

A copy of the full speech can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/speeches/extremism-pm-speech>.

Note: The May/June issue of the e-bulletin contained an update on recent legislation and guidance relating to anti-extremism.

National youth consultation on extremism

Faith Matters and British Muslim Youth launched a National Youth Consultation on 7 July in London, the 10th anniversary of the London bombings. The Consultation will take evidence from youth groups, academics, youth work practitioners and young people, with a view to assessing the accessibility and impact of extremist material on-line on young people. The Consultation will begin work in September and will visit Birmingham, Bristol, Manchester, Leeds and London. For further information, visit <http://faith-matters.org/2015/07/16/faith-matters-and-british-muslim-youth-launch-national-youth-consultation-on-extremism/>.

Far Right rally moved

A rally against the Shomrim, a Jewish neighbourhood watch group, in Golders Green in Barnet, North London timed for the Sabbath, was later moved, following high levels of concern, by Police order and took place instead in Whitehall.

http://www.huffingtonpost.co.uk/2015/07/04/neo-nazi-london-protest_n_7726658.html

Significant in the protest against the plans were Golders Green Together and the Barnet Multi Faith Forum. Local inter faith bodies in a number of areas of the UK, together with faith communities, continue to play an important role in seeking to defuse community tensions and tackle bigotry and extreme voices.

Cremation and coroner services

In the Summer Budget, presented on 8 July, Chancellor George Osborne announced that the Government will conduct a review into the size and provision of crematoria facilities to make sure that they are fit for purpose and sensitive to the needs of all users and faiths. This review will be carried out by the Department for Communities and Local Government.

The Chancellor was quoted in a press release from Hindu Forum of Britain of the same day as having said that over the past year, a number of British Hindus and Sikhs had raised with him their concerns about cremation facilities for their communities and told him that often the facilities were not large enough for everyone from the community to pay their respects and did not always pay enough regard to cultural sensitivities.

Separately, the Ministry of Justice will be carrying out a consultation on changes to rules for cremations and a review of the out-of-hours services provided by coroners in England and Wales to make sure they are sensitive to the needs of the whole community, including those whose beliefs require burials to take place quickly. The latter Review follows meetings Justice Secretary Michael Gove has had with faith groups on improving coroner services.

Further information is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/summer-budget-2015> and <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/bereaved-to-benefit-from-action-on-cremation-and-coroner-services>.

Review of Marriage Law

The Government has asked the Law Commission to conduct a review of the law governing how and where people can marry in England and Wales. The question underlying the review is whether the current law, which has evolved over a long period of time, provides a fair and coherent legal framework for enabling people to marry in a way which meets their needs and wishes while recognising the interests of society and the state in protecting the status of marriage.

The Law Commission has recently begun an initial piece of work to prepare the way for the potential future reform. This includes a preliminary study involving research of domestic and comparative law, and engagement with key stakeholders including faith communities. The aim will be to identify and provide an initial analysis of the issues that need to be addressed in order to develop proposals for the reform of marriage law. It expects to publish its findings by the end of 2015 when, with Government, it will consider next steps, including the possible involvement of the Commission.

The review will not include questions of who can be married; whether or not religious groups should be obliged to solemnize marriages of same sex couples which was recently decided by Parliament; or of the rights or responsibilities which marriage imparts, such as the financial entitlements of surviving spouses or consequences of divorce.

For further information see <http://www.lawcom.gov.uk/project/marriage-law/> or contact propertyandtrust@lawcommission.gsi.gov.uk.

Public consultation starts on the 2021 Census in England and Wales

The next Census in England and Wales will be in 2021. As part of the census research programme, the Office for National Statistics (ONS) has launched a public consultation asking users for their views on the topics that the 2021 Census questionnaire might cover. It is encouraging people to respond online to its current proposals. Anyone can take part in this public consultation which closes on Thursday 27 August and users' feedback will inform further research, development of questions, and consultations.

The consultation survey can be found at <https://consultations.ons.gov.uk/census/2021-census-topics-consultation/consultation>.

Further information is at <https://consultations.ons.gov.uk/census/2021-census-topics-consultation>.

Religion and belief in school – a Westminster Faith Debates report

A Westminster Faith Debates report ‘A New Settlement: Religion and Belief in Schools’ by former Minister Charles Clarke and Professor Linda Woodhead was published in June. 18 policy recommendations are made by them, covering the act of collective worship, the content and formation of the legally required RE curriculum and the operation of faith schools. Among these there are proposals that: the requirement for schools to have an Act of Collective Worship should be abolished; consideration be given to using the phrase ‘Religious and Moral Education’ rather than ‘Religious Education’ in describing this part of the statutory curriculum; and the Religious Education syllabus in county and voluntary controlled schools should no longer be set by a system of locally agreed syllabuses, but be an agreed national syllabus which would have a similar legal status to the requirements of other subjects in the National Curriculum.

The full report can be downloaded at: <http://faithdebates.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2015/06/A-New-Settlement-for-Religion-and-Belief-in-schools.pdf>.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Local inter faith practitioners day

The Inter Faith Network for the UK has, since it was established in 1987, advocated strongly for the importance of local inter faith activity. As foreshadowed in the previous E-bulletin, IFN held a day event in London on 30 July for local inter faith practitioners across the UK to come together for learning and sharing. The day was one of two such days being held this year, the first of which was held in March in Sheffield. A copy of the report on the Sheffield day can be found at <http://www.interfaith.org.uk/publications/all-publications/all-publications>.

Community, Commemoration and the First World War

The Centre for Hidden Histories is interested in developing commemorative projects with national, faith and other emerging communities whose histories are rarely considered, and for whom the traditional Armistice Day celebrations may have strikingly different meanings.

Further information on the research project is available at <http://hiddenhistorieswwi.ac.uk/research-themes-2/>.

VJ Day commemorations will be happening on and around 15 August across the country. The Government is hosting a ceremony for veterans and their families in London. Further information is at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/get-involved-in-vj-day-70>

It's summer: it must be inter faith cricket!

Inter faith cricket has become something of a phenomenon. 'Imams versus vicars' matches have taken place for some years in Leicester (organised by the St Philips Centre and the Community Football Academy), and Birmingham (Solihull Building Bridges Islamic Initiative). An annual tournament, 'The Bishop's Cup', has taken place between St Albans, Watford and Luton since 2011 when it was set up by the Inter Faith Adviser to the Diocese of St Albans.

There have also been inter faith cricket matches in cities such as Bradford and Leeds and in a number of other areas. For example the seventh annual inter faith cricket tournament recently took place at Boyne Hill Cricket Club in Maidenhead. This was organised by the Windsor and Maidenhead Community Forum and the Guru Nanak Sat Sang Sabha Sikh Temple, in Rutland Road. About 100 people of all ages and faiths took part and the money raised went to Slough-based charity Khalsa Aid to distribute to support projects in Nepal. <http://www.maidenhead-advertiser.co.uk/News/Areas/Maidenhead/In-pictures-Inter-faith-cricket-tournament-to-support-victims-of-Nepalese-earthquake-07072015.htm>

A number of local inter faith bodies such as Huddersfield Inter Faith Council, Swindon Interfaith Group and Woking People of Faith have held inter faith matches and some, such as Bolton Inter Faith Council, have been involved in holding tournaments for young people of different faiths:

http://www.theboltonnews.co.uk/news/11621476.In_pictures_Bolton_s_interfaith_cricket_tournament/ Girls as well as boys took part. Upcoming on 31 August in North Shields is an Interfaith Cricket Match and Family Fun Day - <http://www.newcastle.anglican.org/whatson-details.aspx?id=3804>

The Yorkshire Cricket Board runs a special Leeds Inter Faith Project, the aim of which is to use cricket as a vehicle for bringing together communities of different faiths and those from a disadvantaged background in order to break down perceived barriers and encourage friendship.

Fathers and Sons football project

Fathers and Sons is a project which aims to bring together fathers and sons to play football together weekly during the weekends. The project is supported by Near Neighbours and one of its main objectives is to get people of many religious backgrounds involved. The games take place every Saturday at 1pm at Paddington Recreation Ground in West London. The minimum age limit for sons is 9 years and there is a small charge to play, which includes refreshments. Further information can be found online at <http://www.fitcial.com/events/upcoming> or by telephoning 07722 446318.

Rooted Visionaries project

St Ethelburga's Centre for Reconciliation and Peace and West London Synagogue are launching a new Christian-Jewish social action programme for young adults called Rooted Visionaries. The programme is running from October to December, and seeks to energise the next generation of Christians and Jews for faith based social action. It aims to inspire active and conscious reflection on the role of faith in daily life and to give participants the skills and confidence to articulate their vision for change in their community and provide ongoing mentorship and support to make this vision a reality. The focal point will be a residential held at Ammerdown Retreat Centre in Somerset, and there will also be an introductory evening and a number of follow-up sessions.

St Ethelburga's is looking for 'passionate, dynamic young Christians and Jews' who want to translate their faith into action, and would benefit from sharing experiences and learning across traditions. Further information from: Angharad at angharad@stethelburgas.org or phone 07973 446846.

RESOURCES AND TRAINING

Faith and Domestic Abuse: Recommendations for faith leaders

In July faith leaders gathered at the House of Lords for the launch of a Faith Leaders' Declaration on Domestic Abuse. The event was hosted by Lord McColl of Dulwich with FaithAction and Restored.

Faith Action launched a publication which is a collection of recommendations for faith leaders on how to deal with domestic abuse in their communities, aimed at starting an oft-neglected but vital conversation. The recommendations included in the publication come from a series of interviews held with faith leaders, faith-based organisations and domestic abuse organisations. A copy of the Recommendations can be downloaded from <http://www.faithaction.net/portal/faith-and-health/our-projects/domestic-abuse/>.

Young people and inter faith engagement microsite

A youth inter faith engagement ‘microsite’ linked to the Inter Faith Network’s main website can be found at: <http://youth.interfaith.org.uk/>. On this site are materials arising from an IFN event, ‘Young Voices, Young Agents for Change’, which brought together over 80 participants of different ages from a range of organisations to explore aspects of inter faith activity developed by, with and for young people. The aim is to broaden and strengthen this area of activity, enabling even more young people to get involved.

Northern Ireland Foundation

The Northern Ireland Foundation is an organisation that works to secure a durable peace in Northern Ireland. Its priorities include: increasing an awareness and understanding of the themes identified in the Stormont House Agreement — civic conversation, economic renewal, integrated education, mixed housing, women in public life, reconciliation and a shared future; and promoting conflict transformation through projects such as the Forum for Cities in Transition. The Foundation’s website, <http://nifoundation.net/>, contains useful information about other projects working for reconciliation in Northern Ireland, including the Northern Ireland Inter-Faith Forum.

Faith communities and inter faith engagement - SCJC

Faith communities continue to develop ways to equip their clergy, staff and volunteers to engage with those of other faiths. For example, the Scottish Council of Jewish Communities (www.scojec.org) has recently launched a volunteer training course which aims to help people who wish to represent Judaism in the local community including through working with inter faith groups. The course focuses on particular areas of Jewish life such as festivals, food, the life cycle, as well as information about the Religious and Moral Education syllabus in the Curriculum for Excellence, presentation skills, session planning and preparation, and how to be mindful of each faith and practice at an inter faith event.

Faith Guiding

The Faith Encounter Programme offers training to people of all faiths in Birmingham as Faith Guides, so that places of worship can be better equipped to offer high quality educational visits.

The Faith Guiding course is an opportunity to:

- Get to know and understand people of different faiths
- Gain valuable skills in presenting your place of worship to visitors
- Help visitors, mainly schoolchildren, to understand and respect people of all faiths
- Receive and accredited qualification from the Institute of Tourist Guiding

The next course will begin in September and will take place on Wednesday evenings at the Faithful Neighbourhoods Centre in Birmingham. There is a registration fee to take part.

Further information is available at http://www.faithencounter.org.uk/Train/train_guiding.html and any queries can be directed to Ruth Tetlow on 0121 449 4892 or at ruthtetlow@btinternet.com.

CALLS FOR INFORMATION, COMPETITIONS, AND NOMINATIONS

Faith Through a Lens photography competition

Faith Through a Lens is an annual photography competition, linked to Inter Faith Week, held by Congregational and General Insurance. It aims to profile the positive effects of faith within a diverse range of communities.

This year's competition is now open and will close on 12 October. Entry is only open to amateur photographers and will be judged based on emotional connection, creativity and originality. The judges will be looking for the photograph that best encapsulates faith and the community and the organisers suggest considering the following:

- A moment of faith - Try capturing one of those special moments that really demonstrates that faith exists, whether it is a planned event or a one off snapshot that catches the eye and imagination.
- Community spirit against the odds - A photograph which conveys how your community has united despite specific challenges could make a great shot.
- A community hero - Is there a certain individual in your area who has represented faith in the community? Why not capture a shot of them doing what they do best.

For further information, visit www.faiththroughalens.co.uk.

Faith and Spirituality photography competition in Derbyshire

The Multi-Faith Centre at the University of Derby is holding a photography competition entitled 'Faith and Spirituality'. The competition is an opportunity to capture a snapshot of faith and spirituality in Derbyshire that conveys 'Something which seems to point beyond itself'. Winning and highly recommended photographs will be displayed at the Multi-Faith Centre in Derby. Some may also appear in The Derby Telegraph as part of coverage for Inter Faith Week 2015.

There are prizes in two categories: 17 and under and 18 and over. Entries must be submitted between 1 September and 16 October.

For further information, including an entry form, contact mfc@derby.ac.uk.

Honours List nominations

The Department for Communities and Local Government (DCLG) is keen to ensure that individuals from the full breadth of society who are making a significant contribution to public life are properly recognised through the Honours system. It is particularly keen to recognise individuals who have contributed to building integrated communities and notes that nominees can come from all levels; being in a junior role is not a barrier to a nomination.

DCLG is holding a series of workshops during August at its offices in London giving a brief overview of the nominations process and guidance about how to draft a citation. All nominations must be made on an official citation form before 4 September and nominees should not be informed that they have been nominated. Citation forms, as well as further information about workshops, can be obtained from integration@communities.gsi.gov.uk.

FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

Near Neighbours programme

The Near Neighbours programme, a partnership between the Church Urban Fund and the Archbishops' Council, awards small grants of between £250 and £5,000 to projects that enable people of different faiths or none to work together for the benefit of the community. This is a rolling programme with no deadlines available in certain parts of England (maps showing eligible areas can be found at <http://www.cuf.org.uk/near-neighbours/grants/eligible-areas>). Its second phase is due to run until December 2015.

Details on eligibility and how to apply can be found online at <http://www.cuf.org.uk/near-neighbours/grants>.

Interfaith Youth Trust

The Interfaith Youth Trust will again be making available a special programme of grants for Inter Faith Week this year. Grants of up to £500 are awarded for proposals for inter faith activities by children and young people from Christian, Jewish, Muslim, Hindu, Sikh and other faiths and those of no formal faith. The age range for young people is 11-25 years. Priority will be given to projects which:

- Actively involve young people in planning, running, and evaluation of the project.
- Promote positive action, ie young people from different backgrounds coming together to address shared problems, eg improving green spaces.
- Are run by non-statutory organisations, such as youth clubs, scout/guide groups, local voluntary and community organisations.

National Inter Faith Week in England, Wales and Northern Ireland - Sunday 15 to Saturday 21 November.

National Inter Faith Week is a programme of the Inter Faith Network for the UK. Its aims are:

- Strengthening good inter faith relations at all levels
- Increasing awareness of the different and distinct faith communities in the UK, celebrating and building on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and to wider society
- Increasing understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs

Many different kinds of organisation will be holding events to mark the Week: faith community bodies; inter faith organisations; non-religious belief bodies; schools and Standing Advisory Councils on Religious Education (SACREs); universities and colleges; local authorities and Police and Fire and Rescue Services; hospitals; businesses; voluntary organisations; chaplaincies; and others.

Just a few possible ways of marking the Week are:

- Faith trails and open door days – opportunities to visit places of worship

- Highlighting an inter faith project or programme of your organisation
- Launching a new inter faith project or resource
- A social media inter faith awareness campaign
- Joint social action – like a community litter-pick or charity fundraising
- Dialogues, debates and talks
- Quizzes, poster and photography competitions
- Inter faith sports events
- Hands-on learning activities and exhibitions
- Exchange visits between members of different places of worship
- Whole school and classroom activities
- A young people's inter faith forum event
- Arts and cultural events
- Faith and food events

This year, why not consider a hands-on social action project – from tree planting to volunteering together in another way that helps the local community. Or hold a discussion about how living well together as people of different faiths and beliefs and how we contribute to our shared society.

The listing form for events for 2015 goes live on 31 July. If you are holding an event, please take a few minutes to register it to that the IFN office can add it to the map so that it can inspire others to take part and to hold events too.

For further ideas, resources, event information and to register your own event and put it on the map, go to www.interfaithweek.org
