FAITH AND PUBLIC LIFE UPDATES

Housing, Communities and Local Government

Following Prime Minister Theresa May's Cabinet and Ministerial reshuffle in early January the Department for Communities and Local Government has been renamed the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government. Its website is <https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/ministry-of-housing-communities-and-local-government>.

The Rt Hon Sajid Javid MP remains the Secretary of State and Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth remains the Minister for Faith.

BBC Religion and Ethics review

In December the BBC published a review of its Religion and Ethics programming and output, with the aim of re-assessing its role and strategy in this area, and reconsidering how best to deliver its public service mission in this respect. This includes a new commitment to reflect better the diversity and plurality of faith and belief in the UK today. Among its key recommendations are:

- to help the public develop its religious literacy;
- to expand coverage of religion in News output; and
- to broaden the reach of Religion and Ethics content to diverse audiences, including those aged under 45.

The report also says that the BBC will partner with other organisations to host a summit discussing the role that belief plays in British society, to be held every two years, and that it will be designating 2019 'A Year of Beliefs' when special programming and content will be featured.

The full report of the review can be downloaded from http://www.bbc.co.uk/aboutthebbc/insidethebbc/howwework/reports/religion_and_ethics_2017.

Holocaust Memorial Day

Many faith and inter bodies around the UK marked Holocaust Memorial Day on 27 January with events and projects. This year's theme is 'The Power of Words'.

The UK HMD event took place on 25 January in London with contributions from Holocaust and other genocide survivors, as well as others.

Interfaith Scotland, together with the HMD Trust and Glasgow City Council, organised the national Scottish annual Holocaust Memorial Day event on 24 January at Glasgow Caledonian University.

<http://hmd.org.uk/events/2016/holocaust-memorial-national-event-scotland/thu-11012018-1011>

Representatives of the Inter-faith Council for Wales attended the national commemoration in Wales on 29 January. <https://www.wired.gov.net/wg/news.nsf/print/First+Minister+remembers+victims+of+Holocaust+at+service+27012018071000>

A number of events took place in Northern Ireland including the regional Northern Ireland Commemorative event which this year took place in Derry.

Government report on Cathedrals and their communities

In December the then Department for Communities and Local Government published, 'Cathedrals and their Communities: A report on the diverse roles of cathedrals in modern England'. This followed a tour during 2017 of all 42 English Anglican cathedrals by Lord Bourne of Aberystwyth, Minister for Faith and Integration.

The report aims to highlight the positive contributions that cathedrals make to their communities in a range of ways. Inter faith work is among those aspects of cathedrals' contributions prominently highlighted. Examples include the holding of inter faith events, collaboration with other faith communities on social issues, and participation in programmes of inter faith work, such as Inter Faith Week.

The Sussex Hate Crime Project – final report

The Sussex Hate Crime Project, carried out by the University of Sussex and funded by the Leverhulme Trust, has published its final report. The project examined the indirect impact of hate crimes, including “how hate attacks on members of a community affect the thoughts, emotions and behaviours of other members of that community.”

Across 2013-2018 the project worked with individuals and organisations from two commonly targeted groups, Muslim people and Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Trans (LGBT) people, in an attempt to understand how indirect experiences of hate crimes impact on individuals, communities, and society in general. Among key findings in the report are: an increased sense of vulnerability in communities whose members had been affected by hate crimes; a build-up of anger and frustration; and a distrust of the criminal justice system. It also notes that the effect of hate crime goes beyond those who suffer directly, including in faith communities.

The report can be downloaded at <http://www.sussex.ac.uk/psychology/sussexhatecrimeproject/>.

2021 Census

The Office for National Statistics organised a 'Census, Population & Public Policy Forum' on 13 December to gauge views in the areas of ethnicity, gender identity and sexual orientation ahead of the 2021 Census. Among the topics discussed was whether the question about ethnicity should include tick-box options for Sikhs and/or Jews – with views offered in both directions – and the importance of ethnicity and religion data being collected by service providers across central and local government to ensure that the needs of different communities are met at all levels.

Further information about the forum event can be found in a blog post by Iain Bell, Deputy National Statistician and Director General for Population and Public Policy, at <https://blog.ons.gov.uk/2017/12/14/reflecting-views-on-the-2021-census/>.

The Office for National Statistics is carrying out a wide range of activity in preparation for the 2021 Census. This includes a range of consultative exercises alongside ongoing meetings of its Census Advisory Groups.

‘Opt-out’ consent for organ donation

People who donate their organs and tissue after they die help save many lives in England each year. However, 3 people die a day because of a lack of suitable organs.

There has been significant work with and by faith communities about organ donation, including development of materials about this and campaigns to raise awareness of the importance of donation.

In 2013 a ‘Faith Action Plan’ was launched <http://www.nbta-uk.org.uk/2013/12/all-major-uk-faiths-come-together-to-promote-new-organ-donation-strategy/> and further work has been done on this issue.

IFN has highlighted the issues in various contexts, most recently the inclusion of a dedicated workshop at its National Meeting last July with Angela Ditchfield, Diversity Lead Nurse, Organ Donation & Transplantation, NHS and Kirit Mistry, Co-Chair, National Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic Transplant Alliance and NHS Blood and Transplant used Inter Faith Week 2017 to campaign to raise awareness <https://www.organdonation.nhs.uk0/news-and-campaigns/news/nhs-blood-and-transplant-encourages-people-to-talk-about-organ-donation-during-interfaith-week/>

Although 8 out of 10 people say they would want to donate their organs and tissue after their death, most people never register to be organ donors. Under current rules in England, a person who has died can only be an organ donor if they have agreed to it when they were alive or has appointed a person to make a decision after their death. This is called giving consent. The government believes that it would increase the number of organs donated and save more lives if the law was changed so that people who do not want to donate their organs after their death would have to opt out. It plans to change the law in England.

On 12 December the Department of Health launched a consultation to find out what people think about proposed changes in which people are considered willing to be an organ donor after their death, unless they have ‘opted out’. It is particularly interested in views on:

- how much say families have in their deceased relative’s decision to donate their organs;
- when exemptions to ‘opt-out’ would be needed, and what safeguards would be necessary; and
- how a new system might affect certain groups depending on age, disability, race or faith.

The consultation notes, at Section 4.3, that the Organ Donation Taskforce considered the attitudes of different faith and belief groups towards an opt-out system of consent and that its work highlighted significant reservations from people of certain faiths about the impact of moving to an opt-out system of consent, particularly for people less comfortable with the prospect of the change. It includes a question about whether the intended change could have a negative impact on people from some religious groups or ethnic backgrounds.

The consultation can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/consultations/introducing-opt-out-consent-for-organ-and-tissue-donation-in-england>.

The deadline for responses is 6 March. To submit a response, go to https://engage.dh.gov.uk/organdonation/?utm_source=DHTwitter&utm_content=Launchtweetwithanimation.

In Wales, an ‘opt out’ system has been in place since 2015. <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-wales-42213813>

Scotland is also planning to move to an ‘opt out’ system, with the next step being for the Scottish Parliament to consider legislation in the coming parliamentary year <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-scotland-42521772>

Following a detailed examination of all aspects of soft opt-out systems the Northern Ireland Assembly decided in 2016 not to proceed with specific legislation to introduce a soft opt-out system as a possible means of increasing levels of organ donation in Northern Ireland. However, the Assembly in recognition of the importance of promoting organ donation, passed legislation which places a statutory duty on the relevant Department to promote transplantation and increase awareness about transplantation and the donation of human organs.

Faith and Mental health

A number of faith and inter faith organisations are also involved in work relating to mental health issues, including dementia. Some examples of this work are included here.

South London Inter Faith Group, with the assistance of Faith in Society, launched a 3 year faith-based mental health project at an event in November. <http://faithinsociety.org.uk/faith-based-mental-health-project/>

FaithAction has collated studies about how faith communities are becoming ‘dementia friendly’ and produced resources for faith communities to use to help support those suffering from dementia. <http://www.faithaction.net/portal/our-projects/dementia/>

Thrive LDN campaign is working with faith communities to improve mental health for all Londoners. It is holding an inter faith event on 15 February to discuss this <http://thriveldn.co.uk/events/thrive-together-interfaith-event/> and has also produced an information pack. <http://thriveldn.co.uk/wp-content/uploads/2018/01/Thrive-Together-conversations-information-pack.pdf>

The Dementia Trust has produced a guide to helping people with dementia in local churches, which can also be used by other places of worship. http://dementiatrust.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2016/08/04160-Resource-for-churchgoers-inserts_31.pdf

Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting

The Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting will take place in London and Windsor in the week of 16 April.

Leaders from more than 50 countries are expected to attend the summit, coming together to reaffirm common values, address global challenges and agree how to work to create a better future for the citizens of the Commonwealth, particularly young people. The Cabinet Office is supporting the meeting. It is in conversation with faith communities about the CHOGM programme and would like to encourage widespread involvement from faith and inter faith bodies as part of the wider involvement across society.

Suggested activities include:

- Sharing your Commonwealth story with CHOGM. Including family stories, business connections, charitable links or other Commonwealth connections. Upload a 1-2 minute video and email it to commonwealthsummitmedia@cabinetoffice.gov.uk.
- Hosting a Commonwealth Big Lunch. CHOGM is partnering with the Eden Project – founders of the Big Lunch initiative – to launch ‘Commonwealth Bug Lunches’ in February 2018. The lunches will run from Commonwealth Day on 12 March until the end of the summit on 22 April. Interest can be registered at <https://www.edenprojectcommunities.com/youre-invited> or by emailing getinvolved@chogm2018.org.uk.
- Planning a Commonwealth-themed event. The CHOGM website will act as a guide to events taking place across the Commonwealth. If you plan to organise an event, email getinvolved@chogm2018.org.uk for website and social media advertising.

Updates can be found on CHOGM’s dedicated website, www.chogm18.org.uk, on Twitter @Commonwealth18 and on Facebook at www.facebook.com/Commonwealth2018/.

INTER FAITH NETWORK FOR THE UK NEWS

Inter Faith Week

Inter Faith Week 2017 took place between 12 and 19 November, and featured the largest number of events and activities to date. The last edition of this E-bulletin contained a substantial report on the 2017 Week and can be found at https://www.interfaith.org.uk/uploads/Inter_Faith_Network_for_the_UK_e-bulletin_-_November-December_2017.pdf#page=11.

An illustrated report on the Week is being produced, timed as usual to also point forward to the coming Week. If you have any photographs or stories from activities you were involved with, please do keep sending these to the IFN office.

2018

Inter Faith Week 2018 will take place from 11 – 18 November.

Last year for the first time, IFN made available Inter Faith Week branded pin badges to buy via the Inter Faith Week website. These proved to be popular, and it is planned to do this again in 2018. If there are other items which you think would be particularly helpful in spreading the word and raising awareness about the Week, please let the IFN office know and we will explore it.

Connecting across the generations: inter faith engagement of young people

This Inter Faith Network programme was begun in October 2017 and will lead in July 2018 to publication of a new edition of IFN's youth inter faith action guide Connect: Different Faiths, Shared Values <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/connect-different-faiths-shared-values>. It will also feed into a special youth-focused National Meeting of IFN in July.

The programme is being carried out with the help of an Advisory Group, co-facilitated by IFN Trustee Padideh Sabeti and youth co-facilitator, Jaskiran Kaur Mehmi.

The new guide will be full of ideas and case studies to inspire young people wanting to get involved in inter faith activity – or to deepen their existing involvement. It will cover a wide range of activity: from dialogue and social action to sport, arts and culture and more.

Key to the programme will be hearing the views of young people. IFN will be holding small focus group sessions in Birmingham, Leeds, Glasgow, Cardiff and London for young people aged 16-25. If you or someone you know are in that age range and may be interested in taking part, please contact Ashley Beck at the IFN office for more information (Ashley.beck@interfaith.org.uk). The sessions will take place between 20 February and 31 March.

IFN is also keen to hear from organisations which run inter faith initiatives – large and small – with young people. If you have ideas, best-practice examples or resources to share, please take a moment to complete the short questionnaire at <http://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/3556485OWI8> Printable versions can also be provided if helpful for consultation or discussion.

IFN resources for local inter faith organisations

In recent months IFN has been adding to its website a number of resources for local groups on particular themes. Three are currently listed on IFN’s website:

- Inter faith engagement in social action
<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/inter-faith-engagement-in-social-action>
- Standing together
<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/standing-together>
- Local inter faith organisations and schools
<https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/local-inter-faith-organisations-and-schools>

Each resource includes information which local groups may find helpful, including case studies and examples of good practice from existing local inter faith organisations.

A fourth resource on ‘Faith trails and open door days’ will shortly be uploaded and available at <https://www.interfaith.org.uk/resources/local-1>.

INTER FAITH PROJECTS, PROGRAMMES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Ariane de Rothschild Fellowship

The mission of the Ariane de Rothschild Fellowship is to “forge bridges across boundaries between minority communities in Europe and North America, particularly (but not exclusively) Jewish and Muslim”. Over time, this is being achieved through building a network of entrepreneurs and community leaders invested in empowering pluralistic societies, nurturing wisdom and collaborative leadership. The Fellowship is now open for applications from entrepreneurs, social innovators, or those in business who demonstrate a commitment towards inclusion and forging bridges between communities whilst strengthening the sustainability of their organisation. The Fellowship provides an all-expenses-paid week at Windsor Castle, St George's House from 29 July to 4 August, to network and work on the fellow's project with other entrepreneurs.

The deadline for applications is Sunday 4 March at midnight EST. For further information and to apply, visit <http://adrfellowship.org/program/application-form/>.

RESOURCES AND STUDY/TRAINING

'Moral and Spiritual Dilemmas in Challenging Times' – a CCJ Resource

The Council of Christians and Jews (CCJ) has published a new resource in collaboration with Cumberland Lodge, 'Moral and Spiritual Dilemmas in Challenging Times'. The resource addresses how faith communities can tackle 'rising extremism, nationalism and populism' in six short chapters.

The resource accompanies a new edition of Amy Buller's 1943 book Darkness over Germany: A Warning from History. The resource can be downloaded from the CCJ website at <http://www.ccj.org.uk/moral-and-spiritual-dilemmas-in-challenging-times/>.

Strengthening Faith Institutions – new website

Strengthening Faith Institutions (SFI) is an organisation which 'professionalises places of worship'. Organisations which join the SFI network receive a free health check with one of SFI's regional consultants as a basis for a bespoke action plan. The individualised action plans "serve to maximise your organisational objectives and provide a course of focused training for your leadership team, trustees, and members in core areas of safeguarding, security, governance, funding and other areas of need”. The package is provided free of charge to faith institutions.

SFI has recently launched a new website at <https://www.sfitogether.org/> where there is more information about its work and also a library of resources for faith institutions.

‘Faith, Media and Power’ training

3FF is holding a free two-day training course on ‘Faith, Media and Power’ on Sunday 11 and Sunday 18 March. The training will bring together young people and media experts, and will provide an opportunity to: learn how the news media works and how to challenge misrepresentation; gain skills from DIY media experts, campaigners and journalists; become part of an inter faith movement for media justice. Places are free but limited, and a short application is required. Applications are open to anyone aged 18-30 wanting to tackle misrepresentation in the media alongside people from different faith and belief backgrounds. For more information and to apply, visit <http://www.3ff.org.uk/blog/faith-media-power/>.

The closing date for applications is midnight on 2 February.

Consultation on the Review of the OISC Equality Scheme

The Office of the Immigration Services Commissioner (OISC) is consulting on its Review of the OISC Equality Scheme, with responses assisting in the development of a revised Equality Scheme. In order to ensure that the OISC provide services that treat people with protected characteristics in a fair and professional manner and show respect and understanding for their particular needs, the OISC would like to obtain views from those who have a protected characteristic themselves and know and understand the issues that affect people with a protected characteristic. Religion or belief is one of the protected characteristics.

The consultation ends on 21 March. For further information and to request a copy of the consultation document, contact Ayodele Odumade, Corporate Support Officer, OISC, at ayodele.odumade@oisc.gov.uk or on 020 7211 1525.

HMCTS consultation - Fit for the future: transforming the Court and Tribunal Estate

Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunal Service began a consultation on 18 January about the transformation of the court system. The consultation is called: Fit for the future: transforming the Court and Tribunal Estate and closes on 29 March.

There are ten questions over all and one that specifically relates to people of religion and belief. Question 9 asks: "What is your view on how these proposals are likely to impact on groups of court and tribunal users with particular protected characteristics as defined in the Equality Act 2010? Are there any sources of evidence or research that you think we should consider?”.

Communities or individuals may respond to this as part of the wider consultation to ensure that where members of their faith communities have to go to court their religious requirements are met appropriately and with sensitivity. This may include, for example, access to an appropriate Sacred Text when it comes to taking an oath or access to facilities for prayer.

More information about the consultation can be found at <https://www.gov.uk/government/news/calls-for-views-on-transforming-court-estate> and the online survey at <https://consult.justice.gov.uk/digital-communications/transforming-court-tribunal-estate/>.

Honours nominations

A number of people received Honours in this year’s New Year’s Honours list for services to inter faith work or community cohesion.

<https://www.facebook.com/ifnetuk/posts/1717634661620435>

The Ministry for Housing, Communities and Local Government is always keen to ensure that individuals from the full breadth of society who are making a significant contribution to public life are properly recognised through the Honours system. It is particularly keen to recognise individuals who have contributed to building integrated communities and notes that nominees can come from all levels; being in a junior role is not a barrier to a nomination.

All nominations must be made on an official citation form and nominees should not be informed that they have been nominated. Citation forms, as well as further information, can be obtained by emailing integration@communities.gsi.gov.uk.

Comic Relief’s Core Strength Grants Programme

This programme offers grants to help cover the day to day costs of small locally led and based voluntary and community sector groups that are doing ‘much needed’ work in their local communities. Grants of between £1,000 and £5,000 or between £1,000 and £10,000 (depending on the local community foundation) are to be used to support groups that can evidence a sustained beneficial impact on people’s lives who are excluded or disadvantaged. The guidance notes “We recognise that faith-based organisations undertake valuable work in supporting disadvantaged and marginalised communities both in the UK and internationally, and we are able to support their work. We would expect these organisations to be able to evidence the practical implementation of their diversity policy, so that people from all faiths or none can become a member of staff, board member, volunteer, or benefit from the work.” For further information, visit <http://www.comicrelief.com/apply-for-grants/open-grants-initiatives/core-strength-local-communities>.

Funding for projects improving the outcomes of Gypsy, Roma and Traveller Communities

The Integration and Faith Division of the Ministry of Housing, Communities and Local Government is looking for six pilot projects in the areas of community cohesion, educational attainment and health outcomes that will improve the outcomes of Gypsy, Roma and Traveller Communities. The pilot programme will be run in collaboration with the Department for Education and the Department of Health.

To be eligible for funding, an organisation must be a registered charity or have a charitable purpose, and to be successful bidders will need a demonstrable record in delivering projects, working with Gypsy, Roma or Traveller communities and a credible community presence. The deadline for applications is 18 February. All bidders will have the opportunity to receive impartial feedback on one draft application from officials in one of the three Departments if submitted by 4 February. For an application form and the programme specification document, email integration@communities.gsi.gov.uk with 'GRT' in the subject line.

SUPPORT THE INTER FAITH NETWORK'S WORK TO INCREASE INTER FAITH UNDERSTANDING AND COOPERATION

We need your help to ensure that the Inter Faith Network for the UK's work to promote inter faith understanding and cooperation continues and grows, helping people of all backgrounds to live and work together with mutual respect and shared commitment to the common good.

Gifts at all levels are much valued and make a real difference. You can donate directly at www.interfaith.org.uk/donate or via PayPal or JustGiving at <https://www.justgiving.com/interfaithnetwork-uk>

Donations can also be made by sending a cheque to The Inter Faith Network for the UK, 2 Grosvenor Gardens, London SW1W 0DH.

REMEMBERING A FAMILY MEMBER OR FRIEND

If you would like to make a gift in memory of a loved one, please get in touch by emailing remember@interfaith.org.uk or call us on 0207 730 0410.

A GIFT IN YOUR WILL

By leaving a gift in your will to the Inter Faith Network for the UK, you can leave a living inheritance to help deepen and strengthen inter faith understanding and cooperation in this country – for now and for the future. If you are thinking about making a will, the best thing to do is to get in touch with a professional will writer, such as a solicitor or advocate; they can help to ensure it is legally correct and that your wishes are met. If you have already made a will, you can still make an addition or amendment in the form of a codicil. If you would like to pledge a gift, please provide our name and address, along with our registered charity number 1068934.

Please get in touch with us if you have any queries.

You can call us on 0207 730 0410 or contact us at remember@interfaith.org.uk

Thank you!
